activity.
Concluding a notice of the death of Captain Durff, late of the Ledger, the Cincinnati tain Durff, late of the Ledger, the Cincinnati Gazette offers, in the kindest manner possible, the following suggestion: "Although Mr. Durff was an industrious man, we fear that he did not leave his family well provided for. We will therefore take upon ourselves the responsibility of the indelicate suggestion that his services to river interests for fifteen years or more should now receive from the beneficiaries a substantial acknowledgment, which his widow and younger children would, we believe, accept as an intended tribute, and not as a charity. Who will head the list?"
